

Contents

Abstract	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Notes on Transliteration	xi
Introduction	xiii
1 Embodied Devotion: The Role of the Body in Islamic Rituals	1
Is the Body Essential in Rituals?	4
Symbolic Rituals	16
Theory of Body and Soul in Islamic Theology	23
Ḥajj as a Mental Ritual Example	30
Conclusion	35
2 Sacred Landscapes: Spatial Dynamics in Islamic Rituals	37
Between Proponents and Opponents of the Online Prayer	39
Ship Prayers	45
Radio Prayers	54
Does Virtual Space Replace Physical Space?	63

Online Prayer	73
Itihād al-Majlis (Unity of Spatial Session) in E-Nikah	75
Conclusion	82
3 Disembodied Worship: Rethinking Ritual, Space, and Belonging in Muslim Communities	85
Authority	93
Identity	108
Authenticity	120
4 Conclusion	137
Bibliography	139
About the Author	149

About the Author

Wael Hegazy is a Lecturer of Arabic at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and a Lecturer of Islamic Studies at Al-Azhar University in Egypt. His research focuses on digital religion, online Islamic rituals, religious authority, Sufism, and the relationship between religion and emerging technologies. He has published extensively on Muslim online communities and digital religious practices. Alongside his academic work, he serves as the Imam of the Islamic Society of Santa Barbara and is actively involved in interfaith dialogue and community education.